Health Forms Needed for March Return-to-School

Ethos is Everywhere

The Reverend Becca Stevens came to speak with students and parents in Chapel this past Wednesday night. In her homily, she spoke about how we can access moments of epiphany even in the hardest, darkest times. "The whole point of an epiphany is to use these gifts that you've been given," she said in her talk. "It's not about keeping your light under a bushel or saying, 'I have these beautiful insights but I'm not sharing them.' It is about speaking your truth and living into that gift that you've been given." You can watch or listen to Becca's Chapel Talk here, and read Head of School Tad Roach's introduction of Becca here.

Students have been rehearsing virtually for Annie, this year's winter musical. "We are working toward a performance that will occur soon after students return to campus in March," explains director Ann Taylor. The performance will also be made available via livestream at that time.

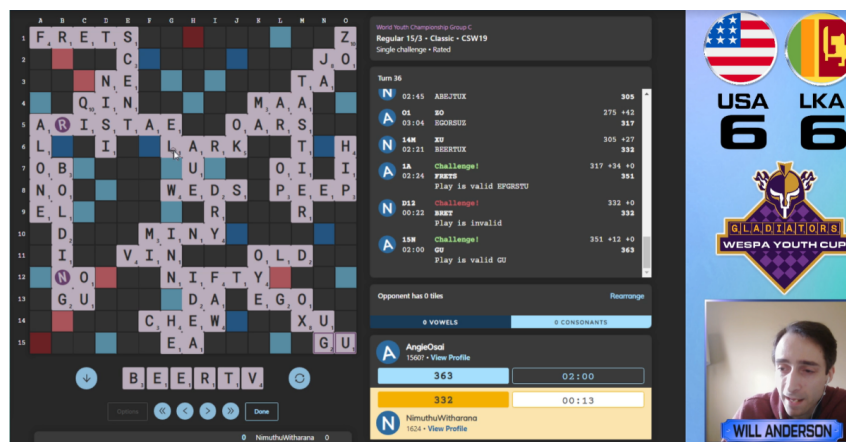

The Library hosted a trivia night this past Tuesday. The "Knights of the AV Club" were victorious, followed closely by "The Gluten-Free Chicken Nuggets" (AKA the Klecan Advisory). "The Lads" made it a family affair, with Nick Oxnam '22 bringing along his parents and sister Charlotte Oxnam '19.

Saints at Home

Last weekend, Angela Osaigbovo '24 competed for Team USA in the World Youth Scrabble Championships, and helped lead her team to victory against Nepal. Angela has been competing in Scrabble since age 6 and has represented the USA and Nigeria in international competitions. Below is a photo of Angela playing a practice game, and a screenshot of her "epic take-down of a tough Sri Lankan player on Saturday morning," notes her advisor Dr. Hyde.

Liz Hall '21 has been teaching kids to row at her local rowing club in Nassau, Bahamas. "All of the kids I've worked with have never been in a boat before," Liz explains, "so we've started with having them on the ERGs [rowing machines], then move them into tubby rowing shells on a tether, and then into double scull boats with me coaching from behind, and eventually into boats by themselves, with me in a launch boat coaching from the water. We also do some fun core and cardio circuits when capacity is too much on the water." Read more about Liz's rowing work here.
